

PROCEEDINGS OF
THE 10TH SYMPOSIUM ON
LOGIC AND LANGUAGE

Research Institute for Linguistics, Hungarian Academy of Sciences (HAS), and Theoretical Linguistics Program, Eötvös Loránd University (ELTE)
Budapest, 2009

ISBN 978-963-9074-49-1

© by the individual authors
Typeset by the authors and László Kálmán

CONTENTS

RICHARD ZUBER: On the expressive power of some non-standard constituents	[5]
OLGA KAGAN: The actual world is abnormal: On the semantics of the bylo construction in Russian	[15]
XU-PING LI: Bare and non-bare proper names in Chinese	[25]
Yael GREENBERG: Additivity in the domain of eventualities	[35]
ALASTAIR BUTLER AND KEI YOSHIMOTO: Making semantics thrive on cheap syntax	[45]
MALTE ZIMMERMANN: Asymmetry markers in discourse: The expressive meaning of bitte 'please'	[53]
I-TA CHRIS HSIEH: On NPI-licensing and the semantics of causal sentences	[63]
ANTON BENZ: On the suspension of implicatures	[73]
CHRIS FOX: Obligations, permissions and transgressions: An alternative approach to deontic reasoning	[81]
SETSUKO ARITA AND STEFAN KAUFMANN: The Japanese unconditional operator doose	[89]
ALEX DJALALI AND STEFAN KAUFMANN: Probabilistic inference in dynamic semantics	[99]
ASHWINI DEO: Temporal genericity and the contribution of imperfective marking	[109]
ADRIAN BRASOVEANU AND DONKA F. FARKAS: Scope and the grammar of choice	[119]
EDGAR ONEA GÁSPÁR: To choose or not to choose	[131]
CÉCILE MEIER: A comparative analysis for resemblance	[141]
CARLA UMBACH: Another additive particle under stress: German additive noch	[149]
KERSTIN SCHWABE AND ROBERT FITTLER: Syntactic force of consistency conditions for German matrix predicates	[157]
STEFAN KAUFMANN: On the modal interpretation of temporal expressions	[167]

