About the conference

SinFonIJA is a formal linguistics conference that is organized each year by a different institution in the area of former Yugoslavia and the Austro-Hungarian Empire. SinFonIJA stands for Syntax, Phonology and Language Analysis. The idea of having a conference that would travel around the area of Central and South East Europe has been around for long, but it took quite some time before it was finally implemented.

At the initial meeting held in Nova Gorica in 2008 (SinFonIJA's website) it was decided that we should continue with this initiative and try to really make it a permanent travelling conference. In 2009, SinFonIJA was successfully organized in Sarajevo and in 2010 in Novi Sad.
